MASHED THE

Arrest of Lilburn G. McNair and Alex Niedringhaus

FOR INSULTING MRS. HERZOG

Two Swell Society Men Taken to the Police Station for Mashing on Broadway.

The two men who were arrested for in sulting Mrs. Henry E. Herzog of 3925 Washington avenue and her friend, Mrs. Hassan, and who gave fictitious names and ad-dresses to the police at the Chestnut Street Station, have been positively identified as Lilburn G. McNair and Alex. Niedringhaus.

The name of no man in St. Louis is better known than that of "Lil" McNair. He is the undisputed leader of the swell society set, has for years been known as the local Ward McAllister and is a heavy real estate opera-

The men attempted to engage the ladies in conversation again, it is alleged, but the wrath and indignation of the latter were so manifest that the mashers concluded to give up the chase, and they accordingly left the elevator at the second floor.

Mrs. Herzog told a clerk about the men pursuing her. The clerk telephoned to her husband at the bank. Mr. Herzog came, immediately, called an officer and had the two mashers arrested.

"I really don't know all they did. Mrs. Herzog telephoned me about 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening to meet her at Fifth and Olive streets. She said two men had insulted her. I rushed right over to meet her. When I got there she pointed out the men and I called an officer and had them arrested. That's all I care to say now, except that I don't intend to let this matter drop."

Lilburn G. McNair has, up to now, been considered the Ward McAllister of St. Louis. He is a grandson of Alexander McNair, he is connected with one of the closet French families of St. Louis. He is the leading spirit in the Imperial Club, a circle that corresponds to the "Four Hundred" in New York society.

In business circles Mr. McNair is no less distinguished than in social life. He began as a railroad man, but went into the brokerage obusiness. He was made President of the Kansas City Electric Railway & Tunnel Co. After that he became a promoter of great business enterprises, and in connection with this runs a brokerage office in Lie Security Building.

He is director in half a dozen banks and trust companies. He is a persistent club.

SENATOR JONES ON SILVER.

He Opens the Debate on the Free Ceinage Substitute.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 11.-Senator

Monday.

Senator Jones, who was listened to with marked attention, spoke as follows:

"It is claimed that this bill was framed and passed through the House in response to the wishes of the President of the United States. It is also said that the bill is entirely unsatisfactory to the President and Secretary of the Treasury from the fact that the bonds provided for are not specifically payable in gold. The President concally payable in gold. The President considers the Treasury in an unsatisfactory, if not a critical, condition. If a condition of reasonable prosperity can be restored among the masses of the people there will be no difficulty whatever about the condition of the Treasury. This present deficiency results, in our opinion, from the much greater evil of the unsatisfactory condition of the people. An issue of bonds is doubtless a boon to that small class of persons who have large incomes which they have not the knowledge, industry or courage to use profitably; who long for investments on which they may draw interest without any greater labor than clipping coupons, but to ho other class is an issue of bonds desirable.

"It is true that the Government is not collecting as much revenue at this time as it seeded, and some steps should be taken trovide for the deficiency. The Secretar of the Treasury, however, in his officierports, shows that this deficiency will be emporary, and not continue beyond a fernonths.

hs. amendment proposed by the comee, if enacted into law, will amply profor this, for the issue of about $50,000

"The amendment proposed by the committee, if enacted into law, will amply provide for this, for the issue of about $60,00,000 of silver certificates, against the seigniorage now held in bars in the Treasury, is one of its features, while the deficiency estimated by Mr. Carlisle is far below that sum. There must be something radically wrong if the richest and freest nation on the globe is in such a condition of absolute helplessness and dependence as the President seems to possider us nowed. "The conditions of distress, not only in this country, but in England, Germany and France, the great nations of the world, will not be denied by any one. How does it happen that in a time of peace all over the world, with abundant harvests, with no pestilence or other such calamity, such a condition of things can exist? No local cause can account for it, for it embraces all the greatest nations in the world. There must be some cause operating in all these countries to cause such widespread distress, uniform in character. That cause seems clearly to be the falling in prices, which has cursed and blasted this country for twenty years.

"Of course, every fall of prices is not an evil. A fall which results from improved and cheapened transportation, is a blessing, and brings prosperity to producers, while it showers its blessings upon consumers. There is, however, one commodity which, when affected in its value, necessarily affects all other things in the world, in all countries and among all civilized people, to-wit, money. Suppose money to be doubled in value suddenly. It would take then just one-half as much of it to buy any given article as it would have take nefore the rise in its value. This rise in the value of money, then, would find the expression, its visible manifestation, and not in the change in prices had resulted from overproduction and improvements in methods of production and improvements ditions of general prospectry existing prior to 1873 would be at ones and permanently restored. Nobody would as firer wrong—even the bondholders would as their own, with interest.

"This, I believe, is the almost universal conviction. But we are assured that Great Britain will not consent to this, and for the selfish reasons of a small class of bankers who disregard other interests, even in Engisand. When it is clear that Engiand will not consent to an international agreement, and that France and Germany will not move except in company with England, then the question comes home to us, What will the people of the United States do? A tremendous responsibility in this emergency, in my opinion, rests upon us as a naviton. If other nations will not join us in this great movement in the interest of humanity it is our duty to undertake it alone. "I believe that the unlimited coinage of silver would, by reviving commerce, increase our revenues and do away absolutely with any pretense of a necessity to issue bonds, and that under that bill such a revival in business would take place that no issue of bonds could be claimed to be necessary.

"There is nothing for us to do but to present the system we believe in, to discuss it and appeal at last to the great tribunal which must decide it. The friends of bimetallism are ready and anxious to have the people settle this question. They hope and believe it will be apeedly done, and well done."

Upon the conclusion of the speech Mr. Teller wanted to know what speed it was proposed to make with the consideration of the bill and when a yote would be asked.

Mr. Jones replied that, as there was a number of Senators who desired to be asked.

Mr. Jones replied that, as there was a number of Senators who desired to be heard, no move would be made toward bringing the bill to a vote for some days at least.

Mr. S. S. Carvalho, Mr. Pulitzer's con Mr. S. S. Carvalho, Mr. Pulitzer's confidential business man, began testifying late Friday afternoon and resumed immediately after court opened Saturday morning, testifying as follows:

Q. "State your name?"

A. "Solomon S. Carvalho,"

Q. "Your occupation?"

A. "Newspaper man—publisher of the World."

S. S. CARVALHO.

A. "Yes, sir."
Q. "When were you first spoken to about it?" A. "On the afternoon of Dec. 25, 188."
Q. "Did you undertake the negotiation?" A. "Yes, sir."
Q. "Whom did you represent?" A. "Mr. Pulitzer."
Q. "What was the general basis of the negotiation? How much of the stock was to be disposed of?" A. "A majority interest in the Post-Dispatch."
Q. "How long did the negotiation concerning the majority of the stock continue?" A. "It was broken off Jan. 22, 1895."
Q. "During the interval, from December 25 to January 21, you had verbal communication with Col. Jones?" A. "I had."

Q. "Was it engrossed?" A. "Yes and forwarded to Jekyl Island."

Q. "You heard from Mr. Pulitzer after the 25th of December?" A. "Yes; I saw him the next day."

Q. "What was the basis of negotiations?" A. Col. Jones said he had $80,000 in cash and wanted notes running over five years, nothing to be paid the first year."

Q. "Without stating in detail what took place at this meeting, give the next step in the transaction?" A. "I left Col. Jones, saying I would see him next day, but I had not time to talk with Mr. Pulitzer as placed the matter. I telegraphed Col. Jones that I would see him on the 27th."

Q. "Without stains in the rough."

Q. "Did you see him on the 27th." A. "I saw him and we drew up the original majority interest contract in the rough."

Q. "Had the words and to be in full control, etc.," ever been in any other agreement?" A. "Only in the one for 1,660 shares."
Q. "Judge Finkelnburg then read a telegram, stating the omission of "President" was a blunder—Is that right?" A. "Yes; that is right."
Q. "On the second day after Feb. 1 you wrote a letter to Col. Jones, which has been read (of Feb. 1), as a sort of explanation of this agreement. Why did you do so?" A. "I received a letter with the MacDona contract, I think from Mr. Pulitzer, embodying the facts in that contract—in order that he might go down to Jekyl Island and see Mr. Pulitzer. I have not that letter. There were only two letters in this negotiation, and this one referred to is lost."
Q. "At all events you wrote the letter we have here and read it to Col. Jones?" A. "Yes, ir."
Mr. Finkelnburg then read Mr. Carvalho's letter to Col. Jones relative to Mr. Pulltzer's declaration that he reserved the right to name a majority of the directors and outlining certain other restrictions.
Q. "Did you read or deliver that to him?"
A. "I delivered it to him."
Q. "To what stage had the negotiations then reached—the contract had been returned with 'President' put in, and in perfect shape?" A. "Yes; it was my instruction to make that letter the last thing of all so there might be no misunderstanding and he might start for Jekyl Island."
Q. "Was there any conversation in regard to it?" A. "I think not."

Q. "Had there been any contention on that subject during the negotiations for the majority contract?" A. "No; it began during the negotiations for the second contract."

Q. "In view of the telegrams you received from Mr. Pulltzer, you resisted the contention?" A. "Yes; and when I gave him that letter and washed my hands of the transaction. I told him so finally."

Q. "What occurred at Jeky' Island, you have no personal knowledge?" A. "No, sir."

Q. "What occurred at Jeky! Island, you have no personal knowledge?" A. "No. sir."

Q. "Did you come to St. Louis soon after the contract had been entered into?" A. "I arrived here on the morhing of Feb. 18."

Q. "What did you do with reference to framing the new set of by-laws." A. "I gathered most of the material for them in Chicago. I got the by-laws of the Chicago Post and the Chicago Club. I posted myself generally on this point."

Q. "What did you do here? A. "I worked on the by-laws with Judge Adams."

Objected to by Mr. Judson as not competent. Court ruled question could be answered.

A. "He voted 1,667 shares of stock, which he held himself."

Q. "There is a protest to the fourth by law. Did you hear all that took place at the stockholders' meeting?" A. "Yes, 'it was held in Col. Jones' sanctum and there was no trouble in hearing all that."

Q. "Is there any other protest of Col. Jones at that meeting that is not on record?" A. "No, sir."

Q. "After the stockholders' meeting and the protest to the fourth by-law had been made, what was the next step?"

The witness started to give an opinion, but was stopped. He was alowed to state that he notified Mr. Pulitizer of the protest. The telegram he sent he had not been able to find. Witness explained that as he had no secretary he had not made copies of his telegrams and they had not been sent on from New York.

Q. "Did you receive a telegram from Mr. Pulitzer that you read to Col. Jones on the controversy you then had?" A. "Yes, on the 19th—three days after the stockholders' meeting."

Mr. Pinkelnburg was shown the telegram of the 19th three days after the stockholders' meeting."

Mr. Pinkelnburg was shown the telegram of the 19th from Mr. Pulitzer, which he had shown to Col. Jones. The telegram read as follows:

Carvalho, Planters' Hotel, St. Louis:

Tell Roderick that under regrettable circumstances—prospects of more wrangling—my object to please appearing hopeless—I prefer, unless he withdraws protest; suspending all relations and submitting contract to courts for judicial interpretation. This seems only manly way. Sedentary.

Q. "What did Col. Jones say when you read him the telegram and went to Col. Jones and asked him to withdraw his protest. He said he could not, as it was a matter of record."

Q. "And what next?" A. "After seeing Judge Adams I took the four resolutions and the telegram and went to Col. Jones and asked him to withdraw his protest. He said he could not, as it was a matter of record."

Q. "Mat followed?" A. "We then ha

Mr. Carvalho further testified that he ead all four of the resolutions and then nade the explanation given above.

Q. "You have stated what Col. Jones said o you in response to your request and that le gave you a writing on the subject—is his the original document?" Judge Finicipung handed Mr. Carvalho the letter of fol. Jones and fead it, stating that Col. ones was fulfilling his contract loyally and diligently and that under the resolutions hen shown him he saw his way to continue doing his work as editor and manger and authorizing Mr. Carvalho to so tate to Mr. Pulitzer.

Q. "Did you communicate contents of this etter to Mr. Pulitzer." A. "Yes, sir."

Q. "We pass from March 19 to March 21, then the board meeting was held. Did nything happen in this interval?" A. "I alled on Col. Jones on the morning of the st, before the board meeting, and I told im that I wanted it on record that we ere willing to submit the contract and y-laws to legal interpretation in order lat there might be no misunderstanding then wrote this down on a piece of copy aper and handed it to him."

Q. "You have attended the board meetig?" A. "Yes; at 3;0'clock that after.

Q. "When did you reach New York?" A.
"In that same month."

Q. "During the interval between your February and March visits here did you become a stockholder in the Pulitzer Publishing Co?" A. "Yes, sir."

Q. "That is, up to the time of your second-visit you were acting merely as Mr. Pulitzer's agent?" A. "Yes, sir."

Q. "Before you returned to St. Louis you became a stockholder?" A. "Yes, sir."

Q. "And at the stockholders' meeting you were elected a director and secretary?" A. "Yes, sir."

Q. "When did you return to St. Louis?" A. "In August. I came to investigate as to a report that the paper had become partisan—also as to a building site—and as to increasing the price of the Post-Dispatch to 2 cents in the country."

Q. "In making your investigation as to the paper's policy, how did you do it?"

Mr. Judson objected on the ground that it was irrelevant. The question at issue was who had the right to control the policy of the paper, the piaintiff or the defendant directors. If the contention was made that Mr. Carvalho was acting other than as an agent of Mr. Pulitzer that would be another question. The plaintiff charged that Mr. Carvalho and the others demanded the change in policy merely as dummies of Mr. Pulitzer.

A. "A directors meeting was called for Sept. 21."

Q. "Was it called to consider this matter," A. "Yes, sir."

Q. "Had there been an understanding between directors that at the meeting of the board the plaintiff should be removed from any of the positions he occupied in the Pulitzer Publishing Co."

Mr. Judson objected, but was overruled.

A. "The understanding was that the matter would be discussed and action taken as the result of that discussion. If Col. Jones agreed to obey the board that would have ended everything."

Q. "You have said what you intended to do, but was there any agreement among the directors to so remove Col. Jones."

A. "No, sir."

Q. "When you say that matter was to be discussed to what do you refer?" A. "The bartisan character of the Post-Dispatch and the fact that it was a free sliver or and the post-loss of the post-lo

Q. "Your relations are very confidential?" A. "Yes, sir."
Q. "You are frequently employed by him on personal matters?" A. "Yes, sir."
Q. "Do you receive any extra compensation?" A. "Nothing except in the way of presents."
Q. "Did you receive that kind of remuheration for making the contract of Feb. 5" A. "No, sir."
Q. "You spent a good deal of time over it?" A. "Yes, some time."
Q. "It was on the eve of Dec. 25, 1894, you had the first talk with Mr. Pulltzer on this contract matter?" A. "Yes; I went to his house, where he transacts his business."
Q. "He is not in total bad health is he?" A. "He is subject to headaches, is totally blind of one eye and cannot see much with the other."

Q. "Here is a telegram of same date—Jan. 24—did you send that?" A. "Yes."

Q. "Did this come before or after the one from Mr. Pulitzer, just read?" A. "Yes; that was the last thing that day and I think I saw Col. Jones before."

Q. "Did you read or state the substance of Mr. Pulitzer's telegram to Col. Jones—stating that he could have one other director anyhow?" A. "Yes; I told him of it."

Q. "Din he not state if he had one member besides himself and Mr. Pulitzer one, that the fifth should be some St. Louis citizen of high standing?" A. "He may have said it."

Q. "Does this telegram (reading it) speaking about Judge Madill being a director indicate that he did so?" A. "That telegram would indicate it."

Q. "What did Mr. Pulitzer answer about Judge Madill?" A. "I don't think he answered anything about that. I got a letter about the 30th which might have said something about it. This letter I have lost."

Q. "What did it say?" A. "That is the letter from which my notice to Col. Jones on Feb. I was based."

Q. "Between Jan. 24 and Feb. I what was done?" A. "On the 25th I sent a draft to Mr. Pulitzer."

Q. "Did Mr. Pulitzer wire you on the 27th?" A. "I don't think so."
Q. "When did you get the revised agreement?" A. "On the 30th or thereabouts."
Q. "Did any letter of instruction come with it?" A. "Yes, the one already read."
Q. "Did you get any telegrame bearing on this matter up to the time the draft came back?" A. "Yes, two important ones—one as to the Presidency having been left out when the draft came back on the 30th."
Q. "Here is one dated 30th?" A. "Yes, Col. Jones asked me to send it down; it was as to Presidency being left out and as to valuation of stock in case of his death, etc."

Q. "Did you have any further discussion with Col. Jones after telegraphing Mr. Pulimer that he insisted on a majority?" A. "I did not."

Q. "Did you ever tell Col. Joses that Mr. Pulitzer insisted the board should be made up of his own employes?" A. "No, sir."

Q. "Did you ever tell him he would not be consulted about it?" A. "I told him either Mr. Davis, Mr. White or myself would be a director."

Q. "You mean you used the disjunctive and not the conjunctive—that it would be Mr. Williams or Mr. White?" A. "Yes, but my impression is that Mr. White was to be a director, anyway."

Q. "Where did you get that Impression?"

A. "From the letter that I lost."

Q. "Did you tell Col. Jones before he left for Jekyl Island that it would be improper for Mr. White, one of his employes, to be one of the directors?" A. "I don't remember."

Q. "Didn't Col. Jones in all these conversations insist that there should be nothing to impair his control over his subordinates?"

A. "He did contend for that."
Q. "Did he not throughout these negotiations contend for control over the policy and management of the paper?" A. "Not as to

FOR ST. LOUIS.

With Them She Will Get the Democratic Convention.

GONE EARNESTLY TO WORK.

The Prespects for the Democrats Naming Their National Ticket Here Are Very Bright.

St. Louis has gone to work in dead earnest to secure the Democratic National Conwention.

Nearly all the money needed is pledged, a powerful committee is how forming to go to Washington and present this city's claims to the National Committee, which meets there on the 18th, and nine votes are pledged to St. Louis on the first ballot. All of this is very encouraging to those who have given time and attention to the matter, and they now view the prospects or St. Louis with a confidence equal to that which they felt at the similar stage of the fight which won the Republican convention.

The votes that are pledged to St. Louis the fight which won the Republican convention.

The votes that are pledged to St. Louis come from Louisiana, Virginia, West Virginia, Mentana, Indian Territory, Missouri, Kansas, Kentucky and Colorado. The two Virginias would be naturally considered alles of some city nearer to their borders under ordinary political conditions, but the most positive assurances have been received from their committeemen that they will vote for St. Louis for considerations entirely extraneous to those which usually determine persons in making up their minds on such subjects. The Montana committeeman, Hon. A. J. Davidson of Helena, is particularly enthusiastic in behalf of St. Louis first, last and all the time."

National Committeeman J. & Prather ex-

"irst, last and all the time."

National Committeeman J. S. Prather, exGov. D. R. Francis and State Chairman C.
C. Maffitt will leave St. Louis to-night in order to reach Washington in time to make a good survey of the field before the National Committee meets and to have the campaign well mapped out for the full committee of St. Louisans who will follow them on Sunday night. Committeeman Robert L.
Owen of Indian Territory, who is now a resident of St. Louis, will accompany the committee from this city, as will also Committeeman O. T. Holt of Texas, who is not yet committed to any of the rival cities. A telegram has been received from Gov. W. J.
Stone accepting the invitation sent him last night to accompany the local committee to Washington, and saying he will reach St.
Louis Sunday morning to be ready to join the committee at the Union Station that ight.

It is asserted positively that he will go to night.

It is asserted positively that he will go to Washington to supplement St. Louis' efforts unless the affairs of the executive department of the State government are in such condition that he can't leave Missourt. Other members of the committee will probably be S. M. Kennard, C. D. McLure, C. C. Rainwater, C. P. Ellerbe and W. H. Thompson.

Col. Griff Prather said to a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning:
"Gov. Francis, Gen. Maffitt and myself leave to-night to do the very best we can for St. Louis. I am not at all certain that we are going to get the convention because of the strong fight being made for it by New York. The silver interests, of course, do not want it to be held east of the Allegheny Mountains and will perhaps be strong enough to locate it on this side. We have only five positive pledges on the first ballot, but I think we can reasonably count on getting at least nine votes on the initial ballot. If we do not destroy ourselves in the struggle with New York I believe we will stand about as good a show as either Chicago or Cincinnat!"

Miss Emma Braddock who resides at 2712 South Jefferson avenue, will be the happy bride. Her age is about half that of the genial "professor," but this disparity in years does not weigh a jot with the couple, who anticipate many years of happiness together.

In spite of his years and snow white hair and beard, he looks as hale and hearty as the average man of 45. ## BLACKBURN WAS NAMED.

He Received the Democratic Caucus Nemination for Senator.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 11.-Senator

FRANKFORT. Ky., Jan. 11.—Sensior Blackburn received the nomination of the Democratic Legislators to succeed himself at the joint caucus of Senate and House held last night.

The roll of members of the caucus showed that a large number of McCreary men had bolted and were not present. These were Senators Weissinger, Hayward, Holloway and Elliston, and Representatives Cahill, Carroll, Johns, Norman, Rich, Speight, Stout, Walker, White and Violett—four Senators and ten Representatives.

Representative Force of Shelby, leader of McCreary's forces, arose and said he had witnessed here what he had never expected to see in a Democratic caucus in Kentucky. It was evident that the nomination of this caucus under the circumstances would amount to nothing, fourteen members having refused to participate in it. He proposed the caucus adjourn without voting for Senator. This was voted down—13 to 33.

Senator Bronston placed Senator Blackburn in nomination. This was seconded by Senators Elmore and Taylor and Representative Grazians.

Senators Elmore and Taylor and Representative Graziana.

Senator Stephenson, Chairman of the caucus, nominated Congressman James B. McCreary, Representative Force seconded the nomination.

The final result, as announced, was Blackburn, 37; McCreary, 12; Brown, 6.

Senators Bronston and Martin and Representative Thorne were appointed to conduct Blackburn to the caucus, where he spoke eloquently and was given an ovation.

Smith to death yesterday afternoon. He was an ex-convict, and shortly before he was killed he had carried out his threat to murder his father-in-law. Robert Clapsaddle. From the latter's house he started for his ex-wife's home to kill her, but he was cornered by a posse in the home of Farmer Brown. He fired at his pursuers and was riddled with bullets.

Smith's wife got a divorce a few years ago on account of his cruelty and drunk-kenness, and he was afterwards sent to the penitentiary for perjury.

NO CONDUIT PLOT.

The scurrying of the city officials concerned in the drawing up of the conduit ordinance to get out from under the charge that the corporation attorneys were using their influence to shape the bill shows that the Post-Dispatch's ex-posure of the plot to draft the law in the interest of the wire companies was Supervisor O'Reilly now says that he did not use and did not intend to use the draft of the bill sent to him by the attorney of a wire company, but it will be noted that as soon as the Post-Dispatch disclosed the facts about it the bill presented by Mr. O'Reilly to the Board of Public Improvements was torn to pieces and a practically new measure was drawn up.

The Post-Dispatch for years has be a vigorous advocate of the burial of the wires. It has done more than any other newspaper in this city to secure the legislation needful to bury the wires in the right way. But it has as persistently opposed the schemes of the nopoly. We do not propose that under cover of public necessity the wire compames and their tools shall foist upon the city a subway plan which shall sacrifice all the rights and interests of the people and establish an oppressive monopoly.

The wires must go under ground, but they must go on the city's, not the corporations', terms.

SUPPOSE A CASE.

The monometallists, high and low treat free silver coinage as if it were a new thing, never heard of beforeradical scheme to disturb values, impair contracts and repudiate one-half of all honest debts-a semi-anarchical attack on the rich-a cunning proposition to rot creditors for the purpose of relieving

The answer to this is that the free silver coinage cause is, not to make a new and cheap metal money, but to restore an old one. It is not a proposition to defraud the creditor, but one to pro tect the debtor from being defrauded. It is not a scheme to introduce some ning hitherto unknown and untried, but to go back to something well known and tried, which was surreptitiously taken from the people twenty-two years

Free silver coinage was a right of the people from the beginning of the Government down to 1873, when it was taken from them by a measure as revolutionary, radical and confiscatory as it was ning-and the demand of the people now is nothing more than that this uneasure be repealed and the subject of coinage put back where it was in 1873.

Suppose the act of 1873 suspending the free coinage of silver had never been passed—would the country be worse off than it is now? There is not a reputable banker or financier in the land whose opinion is worth listening to who will assert it. So far from it, the country would be immeasurably better off than it is to-day. Silver, instead of having market value of 67 cents an ounce, rould be worth $1.29 an ounce; the mines of the mountain States would be the of thriving industries; the populations of those States would be thrice as great as they are this day; wheat, corn, cattle, hogs, horses, wool and cotton would be a third to a half higher in price; farms would be worth twice as much; farmers would be prosperous; and their larger capacity for consumption would make mining and manufacturing more productive. The anufacturing more productive. The untry would be full of money—not "in-ted" and "cheap" money, but first-

United States money, redemption money, coin—with the option to the debtor of using either or both in the discharge of his obligations. The higher was a second to the discharge of the bigher was a second to the using either or both in the discharge of his obligations. The higher price of all products of labor for the period of twenty years would have discharged the national debt, the State debts and all county, municipal and district debts; the Government would be spared the humiliation it is subjected to at the hands of the money lenders; and, instead of needing to borrow a hundred millions, it would be considering how, to get rid of a surplus of half that amount.

TOO DATE FOR THAT

Mr. Cleveland has done some foolisi acts, but his worst critic will hardly credit the report that he intends to intercose to secure autonomy for Cuba under conditions which will secure the domi-

Mr. Cleveland would have difficulty in ecomplishing this object, for he would have to negotiate without the support of The people of the United States would brook no interference unless it looked Cuba, and the Cubans do not want inter osition of the kind suggested and apparently have no need of it. They are by driving the Spanish flag into the sea.

If the insurgent leaders had done what the Post-Dispatch suggested months ago-devoted their means to securing a few fighting ships—the brilliant raid of Gen. Gomez would not have ended in retreat, but in the capture of Havana. With fighting ships to support him, Gomez could have penned Campos in Havana and won triumph for his cause. But despite the difficulties in the way of making an effective fight without sea power, the insurgents are making renarkable progress. They are proving more than a match for the Spanish forces and unless Congress acts soon there is a likelihood that they will exhaust and whip Spain without recogni tion from their big neighbor.

DAIRY INSPECTION.

The local dalrymen will make a great mistake if they combine to defeat the dairy inspection bill which Health Commissioner Starkloff wants the Municipal Assembly to pass. The bill in reality is for the best interests of the dairymen.

Public attention has repeatedly been called to the dangerous condition of the local dairies and the deleterious influence they exert on the public health. Within two weeks six cases of anthrax and three of tuberculosis have been found in local dairies. Some of the dairies have been proved to be disease-

The facts brought to light tend to destroy public confidence in the dairies and to injure their business. If the Starkloff bill is passed providing for rigid inspec nd regulation this confidence will be restored and public opposition to local ut if the dairymen fail to recognize benefits of the proposed law their position must be overcome. The special terest must yield to the public interest, he public health must be protected rainst disease in the milk cans.

Besides having the largest bank clearing ast year in the history of the city, St. Louis shows her growth in the fact that a great oal company, which is selling more coa than in any previous year, supplies only 60 per cent where formerly its quota was 90 per cent of the coal used in the city. Marshall P. McDonald and Edmund Gaon in the corridor of the Court-afternoon in the opridor of the Court-House. The men were separated before much damage was done, and the principals escaped with an expenditure of breath and some lacerated feelings.

The trouble grew out of the Louise Watkins-Col. Bob MacDonaid 100,000 breach of promise suit, which has developed into a feud of considerable magnitude. Hitherto this constantly accumulating animosity has expended itself in words; bitter personalities hurled across the counsel table in a court-room or given wider scope by publication in the newspapers. But this sort of thing could not progress indefinitely, and the climax was reached Friday.

The legal battle has been acrimonious from the first Soon after the suit was brought Col. MacDonaid insisted that the buxom Louise give security for costs. Her attorney, Mr. Garesohe, opposed the motion butterly, but Judge Russell ruled otherwise and Mrs. Watkins had to put up 100, which, it is said, her lawyer advanced Depositions at a cost of over 400 were taken and then the motion for additional security was filed. Mr. Garesche resisted this with even greater vigor than the first motion.

During the taking of the depositions fre-a nowledge if he would confine himself in a room with the revised statutes for a month or two.

"I give you credit for intelligence to know that what you say is not true," said the tail attorney, glaring at his opponent.

Garesche's face flushed hotly.

"You're a liar," he exclaimed, with startling distinctness, at the same time preparing to mix with McDonald.

Judge Rusgell sternly admonished the attorneys to remember where they were and hostilities in open court were averted. Ill-concealed animosity marked the proceedings from that time until 5 o'clock, when court adjourned. Garesche left the court-room a little in advance of McDonald, but the latter caught up with him in the rotunda, where he accosted him:

"Did you call me a list?"

"I did."

Then they got together. McDonald swung with his right, but underestimated his reach, and landed on the back of Garesche's neck. Garesche came back with a swift punch on the jaw and the men clinched. Garesche got the under hold and threw McDonald, who, however, succeeded in getting a firm grip on his opponent's right ear. Then ensued a souffle on the floor of the dimy lighted corridor. The crowd, which had followed the lawyers out of the court room, surrounded them and seemed disposed to let them fight it out.

He referred to Mr. Garesche. Nobody would hold the papers while Col. MacDonald went to the assistance of his attorney, but some one finally held him and his thirst for gore was left unsatisfied.

Solicitous friends finally separated the combatants, and they left the court-house by different exits. Neither received more than trivial injuries.

The fight was almost the sole topic among lawyers Saturday and the details were eagerly discussed. Already partisans have rushed to the defense of each, and more trouble is probable. Mr. Garesche held a levee in his office Saturday morning and explained the affairs' to his friends.

"If they had let me alone," he said, "I would have given tim a sound thrashing. Why, he can't fight a little bit, and he makes a blow about being athletic. I threw him without any trouble and would have punched his face in if they had not separated us. I am hot sorry it happened. They have been threatening me ever since this suit started and every time there has been any proceeding they have had a lot of toughs on hand. Bob MacDonald has been blowing around that he was going to lick me, and I am getting tired of it. He is an old man, but he may compel me to chastise him. But there will be no more trouble if I can help it. Still I won't run away from a dight if it is forced upon me."

Marshall McDonald bears no marks of the encounter. He refuses to talk about the affair, but his friends say he is consumed with a desire to get at Garesche again.

Col. Bob MacDonald cannot find language to express his opinion of Garesche.
"Garesche has acted like a sneak all through this," quoth the Colonel. "He and the midst of the smoke and fire could be seen a woman wringing her hands in

I had some trouble several years ago and he had been watching for an opportunity to get even ever since. I understand that he has said that rather than withdraw the suit he would furnish the costs himself. I don't see how he expects to get his pay out of it. I have sent Gareache word several times that I could whip him, and have given him every opportunity to fight, but he don't want any of my game."

It was principally through the efforts of John D. Johnson that the combatants were separated. Now it chances that Johnson and McDonaid are decidedly unfriendly, owing to a little difficulty of some years standing. Therefore, when Johnson learned that he had pulled Garesche off when he seemed to be in a fair way to maul McDonaid well, his chagrin knew he bounds. So, as good authority reports it, Johnson hastened to Garesche and apologized for his interference.

Threateningly.

The City Hall gossips are greatly exercised over the story of the passage-at-arms between President McMath of the Board of Public Improvements and Street Commissioner Milner. In it they see the bursting of a storm which has been impending for months. Mayor Walbridge is believed to be at the bottom of the whole trouble, and while he has been working as pending for months. Mayor Walbridge is believed to be at the bottom of the whole trouble, and while he has been working as usual, like a mole, his tools have been forced into the light.

The entire row grows out of the City Hall investigation, over which Walbridge has worried zo're than all else. No official in the city is as sensitive as he to criticism and he saw early in the fight that if the Heckel committee was allowed to go to the bottom in its probing much discredit would fall upon him as a member of the original City Hall Commission, at least one member of which has been openly charged with accepting money for adopting the plans known as "St. Louis, 1832."

Then, too, it was shown in the Post-Dispatch that members of the Board of Public Improvements and the City Council had violated their oaths of office in voting contracts before the money had been appropriated. This stirred the Mayor up to a high pitch of excitement. He sent at once to the office of the Secretary of the Council for a record of the Proceedings in order to show that he was not one of those who had been involved in an illegal transaction. He found that he had voted for every contract. The excuse given for all this was that the Councilmen had been misled by City Counselor Marshall, who had certified to all the contracts as being in due form and according to law. Marshall tried to wiggle out of it by stating that he had attested merely to the legality of the contracts themselves. This made the Mayor angry and he read Marshall a little lecture about it

The result of it all was that Walbridge's friends took it upon themselves to divert the investigation from its original channel in order to save the Mayor and his friends. In order to do this it was deemed necessary to find a scapegoat, and McMath was picked out as the victim. In conducting the examination of witnesses, Marshall sought by every subterfuge known to a quibbling attorney to avoid bringing out the evidence of rottenness, and sought only to show that the chief fault was in the delay for which McMath, it was claimed, was responsible. About this time Marshall also delivered a series of opinions so bewildering in their contradictions that McMath was compelled to employ an attorney to interpret them.

A rumor was also circulated which, it is charged, emanated from the City Counselior's office, that McMath was to be relieved of the work of supervising the construction of the new City Hall.

The Milner-McMath row is merely a ramineation of this same trouble. Milner, it is charged, took upon himself, as an appointee of the Mayor, to join in the mud-throwing crusade against the President of the Board of Public Improvements. Not long ago he discharged about seventy-five men from his department. Some were allowed to go because the House of Delegates were spitefully holding up bills for the reconstruction of a number of streeta and alleys. Others were removed because the Street Commissioner found that he was greatly exceeding his appropriation in a futile attempt to keep the streets clean.

Milner's office was literally beseiged with friends of the men who were discharged, and a political row sprung up that threatened to punch some very big blow-holes in the Walbridge boom. Milner told his visit-ors confidentially that the men had been let go simply because McMath Sarra almost Immediately and he took the first opportunity to call Milner down.

"Thave been stabbed in the back once too often," said McMath Sarurday. "Lam willing to take all the blame due me, but I do not propose to allow these fellows to lay thei

Gerard re-entered the store, hauled forth the remnants of the gasoline stove, the cause of the explosion and fire, and hurled it in the street.

Then he remembered that his sick father occupied a room directly over the store. The ceiling and floor were badly damaged and in danger of falling. He re-entered the burning store and returned in a few moments with his father in his arms carefully wrapped in biankets.

So great was the excitement that there was considerable delay about turning in an alarm of fire. Before it was done several streams from garden hose were brought into play. They saved a thirty-gallon tank of gasoline which stood to the rear of the building.

Finally the firemen arrived and the flames were extinguished. Gerard's father was placed in the care of friends. The injuries of Mrs. Gerard were found to be slight. A heavy woolen dress had savet her. Mr. Gerard had his burns dressed. Its. Gerard explained that she had filled he gasoline stove too full and it blew up.

Portions of the stove were blown through the window into the street.

The town was garrisoned by 1,200 Spanish troops under Col. Gutierrez, who refused to surrender. Collaso, who had 1,000 men, entered the city and engaged the Spanish troops in the streets. Desperate fighting followed, resulting in heavy loss on each side. While the battle was raging, Gomezarrived with the main army, and the Spaniards took refuge in the cathedral. Gomezmade repeated assaults on the building, losing many men and gaining no advantage. Finally, Gomez ordered fires kindled against the doors and on the roof of the cathedral unless the Spaniards immediately surrendered.

Mrs. Grinnell Credits Her Vigorous Old Age to Paine's Celery Compound.

It is an uncommon thing to learn of persons reaching the age of Mrs. Emyl Hyde feeling tired. People are surprised at my Grinnell, and years of good health such as vigorous appearance and activity, which, I there come only to those who make use of the very best means of keeping well.

No one will wonder that the bright-eyed old lady, whose mind to-day is as alert and clear as ever, should be so anxious for others to try Paine's celery compound. Mrs. Emyle Hyde Grinnell was born in nnington, Vt., July 6, 1796, and is to-day living with her granddaughter, the wife of Martin Fowler of Colchester, Vt., a beauti-ful town near Fort Ethan Allen. Her father was a farmer and a hotel-keeper, and she lived upon the farm until her marriage. Mrs. Grinnell has none of the infirmities of old age. She rises at daylight, works about the house, and, when the weather will permit, walks outdoors. Her eyesight is so good that she threads a needle and spends many hours crocheting and doing fancy work. She keeps abreast of the times, and is remarkably well-informed upon many subjects. She declares that she does not feel any older than she has for years, and if people half her age enjoyed such good health as she they would consider themselves fortunate. She has seven children, four boys and three girls, two of whom are living to-day,

Whenever I have an ache or a pain a few doses of this medicine gives me relief and strengthening effects of Paine's celery comstrength. Few women, even though much younger than I, enjoy as good health, for my appetite is natural, my sleep refreshing strength. Take Paine's celery compound.

RUSSIAN RAILROADS. St. Louis May Get Some Big Contracts for Material.

Next Wednesday morning B. A. Aldrich. general western manager for the Kilbourne Jacob Manufacturing Company of Columbus, O., will arrive in St. Louis from San Francisco in company with Count De To-loence Loutre of St. Petersburg. The arrival of the Russian nobleman in St. Louis may result in the placing of an immense railroad contract here.

The Count was sent to the United States as a special commissioner of the Russian Government to make arrangements with American contractors and railroad supply houses looking to the immediate building of a series of railroads in Russia.

Recent international incidents have shown the Russians the necessity for having more railroad lines leading to the boundaries and particularly toward India.

The coming to St. Louis of the Count is due entirely to the watchfulness and business activity of several local gentlemen interested in railroad construction.

Arrangements will be made to entertain the Count by the Machants' Exchange and the Business Mars League during his stay.

To transport of the Count of th railroad contract here.

HUNTER'S ELECTION CERTAIN

Representative Wilson on His Dving Bed Cast His Vote for His Old Comrade, Senator Blackburn.

FRANKFORT, Ky, Jan. 11.—The most touching incident in connection with the caucus last night was the vote cast for Senator Blackburn by Representative Isaac Wilson of Nelson County. It was the last earthly act which he could authorize. The vote was cast by his life-long friend, Senator George Fulton, while Mr. Wilson lay on his dying bed in room $3 at the Capital Hotel.

on his dying bed in room 33 at the Capital Hotel.

He came here knowing full well that he would be taken home only as a corpse, but he was determined, as he said, that the last act of his life should be to help an old comrade in arms, Senator Blackburn, who objected to his removal here.

It was indeed the last act of his life, for Mr. Wilson died this morning.

The death of Mr. Wilson breaks the tie in the Legislature. The Republicans have sixty-eight yotes and the Democrats sixty-seven and the Populists will vote for the Republican nominee for the United States Senate, and that will in all probability insure the election of Mr. Godfrey Hunter, who will be nominated by the Republicans this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Hunter is now in Congress representing the Third District.

Before Mr. Wilson's successor can be elected the Senatorial contest will be over.

Mrs. Malato Explains Her Marriage to Anarchist Spies.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 11.-Mrs. S. S. Malato, who as Miss Nina Van Zandt achieved world-wide notoriety a few years ago by her peculiar marriage to August Spies, the Anarchist, is shortly to appear before the public as a lecturer. It was not long after the execution of the Anarchists that Miss Van Zandt married a soion of one of the oldest and most aristocratic families of Sicily.

She returned with him to his native town of Palerma and there lived there were

In speaking of her marriage to Spies, Mra. Maleto said:

"That was the act of a foolish school-girl. Wm. P. Black, who was attorney for the Anarohist, was the cause of it. He told me that by doing as he wished I would save the life of Spies, that no jury of American citisens would send to the gallows a man with a loving young bride's arms around his neck.

"I had been engaged to Mr. Spies for some time and after much urging and pleading by Mr. Black I consented to the cemency he wished me to go through We were not married by proxy, as the news. papers alleged. I simply signed a paper before a Justice of the Peace in the presence of witnesses, asknowledging that I accepted Mr. Spies as my husband. He did the same, acknowledged me as his wife.

"I believe if was a legal marriage, but it was our intention all the time to be married in the regular way when he was liberated. When Mr. Black found that his plan would not accomplish thee freedom of Mr. Spies he turned his back on us and disavowed any connection with the ceremony we had gone through. I never would have been known to the public but for him and I shall never forgive him for the great wrong he did to me, then only an innocent girl, not out of school."

SON RUSSELL PIQUED.

He Does Not Fancy Mrs. Dimmock as a Step-Mether.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The fact that no NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The fact that no one has denied the rumored engagement of ex-President Harrison and Mrs. Dimmock is thought to indicate its truth.

The family of the ex-President have acted as though they were displeased at the fact, and not at the gossip. Russell, it is said, is unwilling that papa should marry, and so are the McKees.

There are some who say—for people will gossip—that the opposition of Russell is twofold. First, because his father did not consult him, and next, because, while Mrs. Dimmock, as the niece of the late Mrs. Harrison, lived with them and was really one of the family. Russell and she met rather as acquaintances than as friends.

Russell had well set notions that no collateral relative had a right, at state functions, to stand equally with the family of the President. Russell thought it bad form. He was not quite sure even about the right of Son-in-Law McKee, but he was positive that one who was simply a relative of the wife of the President had not the right to be a principal in a public function.

Mrs. Harrison did not pretend to notice the coolness of Russell, nor did the General, who had always a great regard for the ability and the sweetness of disposition of Mrs. Dimmock, a sentiment that was much enhanced by her devotedness to the late Mrs. Harrison in the days of her fatal illness.

When the term at the White House was over the younger Harrison fanthered. has denied the rumored engagement of

THE MARKETS.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11:

This week's clearances of flour and wheat from both coasts were equivalent to 3,471,000 bu, against 3,965,000 last week. 2,587,000 corresponding week last year, 2,409,000 in 1894 and 3,308,000 in 1893.

That the Argentine is holding back its wheat is indicated by the fact that this week only 44,000 bu is reported exported.

Corn exports this week were 2,628,000 bu, of which 478,000 bu from New Orleans. Last week's total was 3,227,000 bu.

The position pays nothing and thereing is not as eagerly sought as are other pointive offices to which are attached larger fees or comfortable salaries. Nor, is the even any particular political prestign of a tional advantage to be gained by occupying a place on the board unless the appoint should ignore precedent and disregard fay. In brief, it is purely a position of honor and its duties are so onerous and thandes that there is seldom a great scramble for if. This rule is applicable in the present case, though there is no dearth of suggestions from the friends of various well-known Democrats who think their respective man pseculiarly fitted for the office.

Among the most prominent of those "mentioned" for the vacancy are Alexander A Selkirk, H. A. Guinzburg, P. J. Kelly, Dam C. Donovan, Adiel Sherwood, P. J. Murphy, Elmer R. Greeg, W. H. McClain, A. Paxson and Dr. Heine Marks.

All of these gentlemen are known to personal and political friends of Gov. Stonand each of them has a heavy and sustantial backing. The friends of each a circulating petitions in their behalf which will be presented to the Governor within the next week.

It is hinted by the same friend that the Governor may surprise and disappoint all the politicians by selecting some genileman who has not yet been considered by any of the slate-makers. Gov. Stone has more than once surprised the politicians this way.

As to the wild rumors that the resignation of Commissioner Fruin forbodes a big shake-up in the Police Department, which may even seriously affect Chief Harrigan there seems to be absolutely no foundation. tion.

Maj. Harrigan says he has no cause to feel the least apprehensive on this score and that the relations between him and Gov. Stone are of the pleasantest possible sort.

TRYING TO REVIVE "POOL ALLEY.

Authorities Investigating the Hotel Van Studdiford Place.

A WARRANT HAS BEEN ASKED

Chief Harrigan Says He Will Suppres Such Gambling if the Law Will Sustain Him.

The telegraphic poolroom in the rear of the Van Studdiford Hotel continues to do a rushing business unmolested by the police. When a Post-Dispatch reporter dropped in Friday afternoon the place was crowded to overflowing with patrons and hangers-on. The only change noticed in the appearance of the place from the day previous was a huge sign posted against the wall which read:

"Postitvely no betting permitted here! (Signed), H. C. Harris, Manager."

A similar sign embiasoned in red letters is displayed in a conspicuous place in the barroom.

Considering the character of the establishment and the nature of the business conducted therein, it is rather difficult to understand the stact meaning of the signs.

When asked if he intended to permit such poolrooms to exist. Chief of Police Harrigan replied: "I will first have to learn whether any law is being violated. If I find such to be the case you may rest assured I will act promptly. I have already done all I can. My men collected evidence and placed it before Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson Friday morning. On this evidence they requested a warrant against the proprietors of the place. Col. Johnson took the matter under advisement and until he renders his decision my hands are tied."

Chief of Detectives Desmond, in speaking on the subject, said: "If there is any law by which these poolrooms can be reached they will be stamped out at once."

on the subject, said: "If there is any law by which these poolrooms can be reached they will be stamped out at once."

Aside from the pernicious influences which always follow in the wake of such forms of gambling, legitimate racing is bound to suffer heavily if such places are permitted to exist. If the authorities do not nip them in the bud, dozens of similar establishments will spring up in the city, and by the time the races open at the Fair Grounds in the spring they will have gained a stronghold on the racing public.

A small percentage of the people whose money goes to support race tracks go there ta see the races. Although many enjoy the excitement their purpose in visiting the track is to try to win money by betting on the horses. Many of the frequenters of the rack are engaged in business down town, and if the pool-rooms were allowed to run would prefer to patronize them rather than waste time in going to the track. Another class would reason that it is throwing away money to pay admission to the race track in order to bet when the same result can be attained in the pool-rooms for nothing. The Western Turi Congress and the breeders throughout the State recognized the menace of such establishments to legitimate racing when the fight was made on pool-rooms here some time ago. They joined forces with the opposition to the gamblers and the result was a law was passed making pool-rooms were running full blast and each was filled with an eager; excited growd of men and boys of all classes, all ment on the same purpose. The book-makers made no discrimination as to age, color or social standing.

The prosperous merchant elbowing his way through the crowd in an effort to place a bet on his favorite josted against his negro porter who was pressing forward to out down a dollar on a "sure thing." In some books bets as low as 25 cents were taken, and their proprietors grew itch in fairing in the bets of boys working for small sularies, just starting on the downward to the policy of the public starting on the downw

The police records bear silent witness to fact that the downfall of numerous ted employes can be directly traced to be pool-rooms. Dozens of cashlers and kneepers who never took a misstep beand who enjoyed the confidence of their loyers and associates, after a few visits does dens of vice became infatuated the baneful game, played it until their y was gone and then in an evil moment money that did not belong to them, the was "Pool Alley" before the police an end to the pool-rooms, and such it be again in the near future unless the borties adopt heroic measures to stamp places of the same character that are notice.

Dety Affronts His Colleagues.

The Committee on Public Improvements of the House of Delegarés added to its already disgraceful record Friday night by demanding a reorganization because ode of its members was honest enough to insist on doing his duty to the public.

The row arose over the action of the committee in holding up for months a number of bills for the improvement of streets and alleys. Most of these bills were sent to the House by the Board of Public Improvements as early as May, '95, and, as stated in the Post-Dispatch some time ago, they have been held there because its expectation of the committeemen. When Triends of the committeemen.

When The House met Friday night Mr. Watson, representing a minority of the committee, presented a report demanding that the delayed bills be taken up and acted upon. This precipitated a storm in which Delegate Lehmann took a hand. He made a savage attack upon Watson, in which he accused the latter of having used his influence for months to hold up the gravel bills.

Mr. Watson attempted no reply and George Grassmuck moved that the Public Improvements Committee be declared vacant.

"There is," he said, "a lack of harmony in the committee and it seems to me that the only way to remedy it is to have a new committee."

Delegate Kelly objected to this on the ground-that it would be a reflection on Speaker Diekmann, but Grassmuck's motion went through and Bersch and Watson were dropped from the committee. Pauley and Judy were put in their places.

The whole frouble is said to have grown out of an attempt to hold up the manufacturers of vitrified brick. Several of the delegates are reported to have tred to compel the brick men to put up a big slush fund before the bills for reconstructing the attents were reported favorably. Watson has opposed this boodle scheme from first to less and his persistency in an extended debate over the amendments was laid over.

Similar action was taken with the bill to relieve the Southern Electric road from its obligation to pay $10,000 a year into the city treasury. The delay was granted at the request of Pat Clarke, who is strongly in favor of the bill, and who saw that he was liable to meet with defeat in the absence of Councilman Hagan, who is also a stanch advocate of the relief bill.

In the House of Delegates the Central railway ordinance was favorably reported, with an amendment slightly altering the right of way. Delegate Buechner introduced an ordinance appropriating $20,637 for payment of damages assessed for the opening of Rutger street, from Grand to Cabanne.

HOW ARE YOU?

YOU HAVE often been asked this question, but have you ever realized its serious meaning? If you were asked it at this very moment, could you candidly reply, "I am feeling quite well?" Might you not be forced to answer, "I am not feeling so well as I ought to feel?"

THIS IS a serious question for you to consider, because this is a dangerous time of the year. Wintry weather is a severe strain on the system, and alarming results are very apt to follow a sudden cold or chill. ARE YOU experiencing any symptoms which show there is a weak spot in your system? Do you feel weak and shivery in these cold winter days? Do you have pains in the back, headaches, stomach troubles, dizziness, loss of appetite? Are you a sufferer from constipation, billousness, restlessness and many other miserable feelings caused by derangements of the liver and kidneys?

IF YOU are feeling like this, and realize that your system lacks tone and strength, remember that you cannot expect to get well without the aid of a reliable remedy. Something is needed to arouse nature by stimulating the great organs of the body—arousing the circulation and renewing the vital powers. For this purpose nothing has ever equaled Warner's Safe Cure, the great restorer and health-giver. Its effects are immediate and lasting. It speedily puts the liver and kidneys in good order, purifies and enriches the blood, and drives out every dangerous germ of disease that lurks in the system. There is nothing like it for building up the strength and regulating the digestive organs. It is not an experiment, but a standard remedy, indorsed by the world's greatest physicians. No other remedy has ever received such an enormous number of testimomials from people whom it has made strong and well-good a question of the monials from people whom it has made strong and well-good a question of the monials from people whom it has made strong and well-good a question of the monials from people whom it has made strong and strong and strong and strong and strong and strong and strong and
